Balfolk Festival

DAILY

SUNDAY EDITION

RUMOURS

OH NO! IT'S THE LAST DAY!

And all of a sudden it's Sunday... We tried to avoid this moment by adding another day to the festival, but it seems to be impossible to skip something like the last day... Dance, enjoy the market, don't forget to sample the food (burgers! soup! muffins and cakes!), buy that drink for the cute red-haired dancer, ask that barman for a dance, have the guts to tell that Portuguese guy that you like the way he dances, hug Gozeweijn-the-rabbit (and ask him for a dance!), check out the Hedgehog tent if you haven't done so yet, complete your bingo card and don't wait for the last dance to do all the things you still wanted to do! We are so happy you all came to Duiven and were willing to join our festival and make lovely memories here with us!

NOT-SO-SILENT DISCO AND COINS

*The silent disco has evolved from being silent to not-so-silent-disco because people have found out it's perfectly possible to sing along to the music. And dance on the bar. And dance with random people whether they're wearing headphones or not.

*For those like me who wear dresses without pockets - the coins we use have a whole in them. Find a piece of string, tie a knot in it and hey presto, you've got a coin-string!

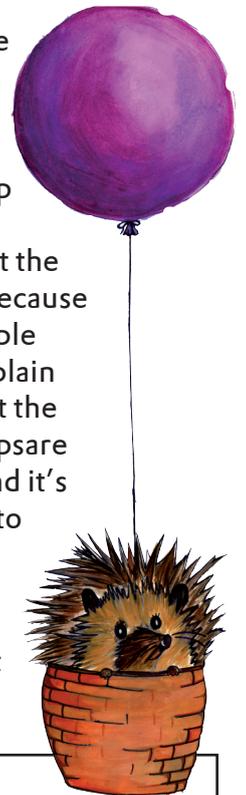

*Because one participant claimed on Thursday night 'The only thing that's missing here is a sauna', the organisation has kindly arranged this. The open stage is, from now on, sauna area. Bring your own towel.

* The danstage won't use any of the workshop teachers present at the festival because then people will complain again that the workshops are too nice and it's too hard to choose.

HEDGEHOG TENT

The only thing still missing in the hedgehog tent is a story-telling hour... If anyone wishes to set this up before the festival comes to an end, please make a quiet announcement. Preferably stories about balloons and hedgehogs and foxes and owls, of course.

We
the unwilling led by the unknowing
are doing the impossible for the ungrateful
We have done so much for so long with so little
That we are now capable
to do anything
with nothing
So there...

(men's toilet poetry)

SUNDAY

WORKSHOP

Only one workshop this Sunday, but a great chance for all those people we had to disappoint earlier on: there'll be another BAGPIPE WORKSHOP. This one will start at noon - 12.00 - at the CCOG. No need to bring your own bagpipe, we've got them for you. Just sign in at the cash register if you want to join.

QUOTES

*Henriette: 'why can't the whole world be like CaDansa?' Sander: 'Because I don't have enough shirts for that'.

*Niels: 'No, this morning I was Lennart. Now I'm Judith' (or: how to confuse your volunteers.)

*Lars: 'Nothing beats cooling yourself down with a banknote-fan'

*Louise, to bingo winner: 'What was your most difficult assignment?' Winner: 'finding out what kind of assignment that 's' was - there was no 's' on the list'.

*"Did you see those pumpkins near the message board? And did you notice that there seem to be fewer, but that there is pumpkin soup on the menu now? "

CLOTHING SWAP

If you weren't here last Thursday, you still have a chance to get some nice new (and clean...) clothes, because the clothes swap is here again! Take a look at the open stage room (there might be some jam session there as well...) and get a nice new shirt, dress, pair of trousers or jacket!

SUNDAY - PROGRAMME

MAIN STAGE

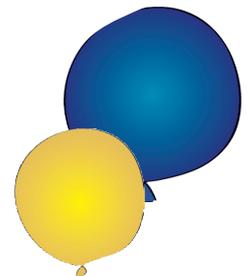

13:00 PHILIPPE PLARD

15:00 DUO THEBAUT

17:00 NARAGONIA

19:00 CLOSING CEREMONY

20:00 TIME FOR SAD GOODBYES

OPEN STAGE

CLOTHING SWAP!

THE BEST PLACES TO JAM

- *at your hotel room (room 501 seems to be the place to be)
- *in front of the town hall
- *that one sunny spot in the grass
- *right at the busiest spot in the ccog (maximum exposure!)
- *in the catering room - those people might like a bit of music
- *on the main stage (as one musician said, 'hey, that's my only chance of ever getting onto that stage!')
- *This Sunday: at the Open Stage room, apparently. :) Be there and bring your instrument!

CUTE NOTES

Have you found the message board already? Today is your last day to leave nice messages, ask that barman to dance with you and leave cute hedgehog drawings!

YOU KNOW YOU'VE BEEN AT CADANSA FOR TOO LONG WHEN...

- your feet automatically avoid the cable-bump in the corridor
- you've worked out the organisation's favourite hedgehog-hiding spots
- you automatically get the right kind of bionade from the barman
- you suddenly speak French even though you never learnt that language
- you've waken up more often in the tent than you can remember
- you have tried all the six different soups and can give an extensive positive review for them all.
- your feet hurt too much to dance so you stand, bare-foot, on your dance partner's feet instead.
- you stopped comparing this place to the Musketon.
- you don't think you've been here for too long.
